

OKLAHOMA DEAF-BLIND TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE PROJECT PRESENTS.....

ON LINE PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

The Oklahoma Deaf-Blind Project is hosting the Open Hand Open Access Learning Modules created by the National Center on Deaf-Blindness. The modules are interactive and include a variety of accessible videos, photographs, slide presentations and learning activities. Participants may work at their own rate and at convenient times for their schedule. A host will be available to answer questions, support understanding of content and enrich the learning experience. Certificates will be awarded at the completion of each module.

About the creators: The creators of the modules are experts in the field of multiple disabilities and deaf-blindness. They include parents, teachers, educational interveners, and higher education faculty with many years of experience working with children with disabilities. The information included in the modules cannot be found anywhere else.

Who Should Participate: teachers of children with multiple disabilities, teachers of children with severe disabilities, teachers of children with deaf-blindness, parents, special education directors, paraprofessionals, teachers of the visually impaired, deaf educators, speech pathologists, directors of special education
