Apps for Autism

iPad Apps for Autism is a Google blog that contains a spreadsheet of apps for people with ASD, along with reviews, links and prices. The spreadsheet is maintained by a parent, an adult with autism and a speech-language pathologist. View the blog and get the spreadsheet at <http://www.squidalicious.com/2011/01/ipad-apps-for-autism-spreadsheet-of.html>.

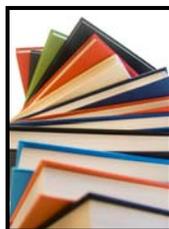

iAutism.info was started by parents in Spain and lists apps for Apple and Android devices by skill area. The website is available in both English and Spanish, and the list includes information about whether apps are provided in multiple languages. <http://www.iautism.info/>

Early Identification Module Available for Autism Spectrum Disorders

The National Professional Development Center on Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD) developed a module about early identification of ASD. The module contains videos that demonstrate early signs of ASD, case studies and other resources that may be helpful to professionals who work with young children. The module is available by visiting www.autismpdc.fpg.unc.edu/.
