AN INVENTORY RECORD OF PURCHASED FOOD AND SUPPLIES

An inventory system is a tool of management that must be maintained for an efficient food service operation. This inventory book provides food service managers with a systematic method for taking and maintaining a complete inventory record of purchased food and supplies.

An incorrect inventory can mean the difference between profit or loss and will also reflect an incorrect food cost.

Inventory records are used to:

- 1. Develop meaningful food cost analysis (arrive at food and milk used).
- 2. Prepare monthly orders for food and supplies.
- 3. Avoid being overstocked or understocked.
- 4. Assure that quantity of food needed to meet menu requirements is available.
- 5. Prevent food deterioration by using older stocks first.
- 6. Control any possible disappearance of foods.
- 7. File insurance claims in case of fire or theft.
- 8. Determine food and milk used for financial reports.

INSTRUCTIONS

- 1. Refer to the Index of Purchased Foods for grouping of items. The format used groups items by food categories. For example, instead of having all frozen foods in a separate section, all fruits are in one section and are separated into canned, frozen, and dehydrated/dried. This arrangement is easy to use when preparing purchase orders.
- 2. There are only three columns to be filled in on the inventory form. The Amount on Hand should be number of single units—such as 21 cans applesauce (not 3 cases + 3 cans), 30 pounds frozen strawberries (not 1 case), 48 pounds flavored gelatin (not 2 boxes). The price is the Unit Price—such as $1.85/#10 can, $.40/lb, or $1.50/qt/jar. Items such as eggs would be priced per dozen, mustard might be per gallon, vanilla per quart, but the majority of items will be priced per #10 can or per pound. the Total Value Column is figured by multiplying the Amount on Hand by the Unit Price.
- 3. In the storeroom, the commodity items should be separated from the purchased foods and inventoried separately using the perpetual inventory format provided by the Department of Human Services (DHS).
- 4. Any substantial amount of food in the refrigerators should be inventoried at the per portion cost.

- 5. For speed, accuracy, and efficiency, items on the storeroom shelf should be arranged in the same order as the inventory form.
- 6. When space and facilities permit, nonfood supplies should be in a separate storeroom. When this is not possible, they should be grouped together in alphabetical order in one area of the storeroom.
- 7. Use hard-lead pencil only (#3); soft-lead pencils (#2 or #2 1/2) will smear.
- 8. When the monthly inventory has been totaled, transfer the tools to the Monthly Record of Inventory Value, page 5.
