Celebrating Teachers

A Message From State Superintendent Janet Barresi

Dear Friends,

Of all the opportunities I have as the State Superintendent, the Teacher of the Year program is truly one of my favorites. Besides a parent, or other caring adult, there is no one more important in a child's life than his or her teacher. The profession of teaching attracts a group of dedicated individuals that go above and beyond every day to make sure each child in his or her classroom leaves prepared for college, workforce training or a career. In essence, a teacher ensures each student is prepared to achieve whatever life goals he or she sets.

Today, we will first meet the 12 finalists for the 2014 Teacher of the Year. This has been a long road for them, but just being on this stage today means they are one of the state's 12 best and brightest teachers. The crowning moment today will be when we name the 2014 Teacher of the Year. That person is in for a fantastic ride.

I do not envy the judges who have made today's determination. It is an agonizing task. Each one of today's finalists is deserving of the Teacher of the Year award, yet one will stand out above the rest. Today's winner will represent Oklahoma in the National Teacher of the Year competition in Washington, D.C., this spring.

Passing on the torch today is Elaine Hutchison, Oklahoma's 2013 Teacher of the Year. Ms. Hutchison has done a wonderful job of representing our state and her profession. She is a mathematics instructor, athletics coach and Rural School Consortium Director from Fairview and a National Board Certified Teacher. She has been an outstanding ambassador for the State Department of Education, and we will miss her.

Today, we also will recognize our Rising Star Teachers. They have been selected from the district Teachers of the Year applicants, and they are some of Oklahoma's newest teachers. Each of these award recipients has taught for seven years or less and has been determined to show great promise.

This event would not be possible if not for our sponsors. I thank all of our sponsors, especially our major contributors, the State Fair of Oklahoma, the Masonic Charity Foundation of Oklahoma and American Fidelity. All have been consistent, long-time sponsors. Each year we have countless sponsors who reward our finalists and our Teacher of the Year with a wonderful array of cash and prizes. Last but not least, I'd like to thank the finalists' family members. Their love and support shaped these educators into the prized teachers they are today. They also have made this journey possible for the finalists.

Lee Iacocca once said, "In a completely rational society, the best of us would be teachers and the rest of us would have to settle for something else." We may not be living in a completely rational society, but what I can promise you today is that 12 of the best of us will stand on a stage and represent one of the greatest professions in history. I wish the best to each of the finalists in their careers as they return to the classroom to shape the minds of our future leaders.

Sincerely,

Janet C. Barresi

■ EDWARD C. JOULLIAN III SCHOLARSHIP

Edward C. Joullian III honorably served the state of Oklahoma as chairman of the State Fair Board of Directors for ten years. As a founder of the partnership between the Teacher of the Year program and the Oklahoma State Fair, he has shown his dedication to the education of the children of this great state.

The Edward C. Joullian III Scholarship was established by the State Fair Board to encourage students to continue their education, recognize the State Teacher of the Year's school district, and celebrate the contributions of Mr. Joullian to the lives of Oklahoma's young people.

In 1998, the $5,000 scholarship was unveiled during the State Teacher of the Year recognition ceremony and is awarded annually to a graduating senior from the Teacher of the Year's school district. It is awarded based upon a student's overall scholastic, leadership, and civic potential.

■ 2014 OKLAHOMA TEACHER OF THE YEAR FINALISTS

Chelsea Roberts

Woodward Middle School
Woodward Public Schools

8th-grade American history teacher

"I hope throughout my Teacher of the Year journey I can inspire and encourage bright young people to consider entering the field of education. Teaching is the most rewarding job an individual can have and those of us already in the profession need to do a better job of discussing the positive aspects of our job rather than the negative. Oklahoma students deserve the very best!"

Eddie Lou Strimple

McKinley Elementary School
Enid Public Schools

Pre-Kindergarten through 5th-grade music teacher

NATIONAL BOARD CERTIFIED TEACHER

"The foundation of my teaching philosophy is 'possibilities.' Possibilities exist in every day, in every learning experience, in every class period, and in every child. An outstanding teacher builds opportunities for students to master skills and reinforces concepts so every child is successful."

Peter L. Markes

Edmond North High School
Edmond Public Schools

8th- through 12th-grade string orchestra and Advanced Placement music theory teacher

"Community, Passion, and Relevance: CPR is in order to revive what is so good about education in Oklahoma. Our community, especially our parents, must be engaged for the reinforcing support necessary to educate a child. We must instill in the students the same passion for learning that we have as teachers, with hopes that the students will go home and ignite that same passion in their parents. Finally, we must help the students understand that what they are learning is relevant to both their current world and the world that we are all planning for in our future."

■ 2014 OKLAHOMA TEACHER OF THE YEAR FINALISTS

Barbara Bayless

James Griffith Intermediate School
Choctaw-Nicoma Park Public Schools

Formerly 3rd-grade teacher, Currently Reading Specialist

"Being a finalist for Oklahoma's Teacher of the Year has compelled me to reflect on my profession, my passion, and the current trends and direction of public education. Most importantly, this opportunity has allowed me to articulate a platform and share my voice regarding some of our state's most important issues facing education and our 21st century students."

Dana Moore

Woodland Hills Elementary School
Lawton Public Schools

Kindergarten teacher

"Teaching is truly a work of heart! Educators do not enter this profession for the income, but instead for the outcome. We do so much more than "just teach"! We have become counselors, nurses, parents, mediators, as well as countless other titles to our students and their families. We know that what we do each day will make a difference for the future of our state and our country."

Betina Jones-Parra

Noble High School
Noble Public Schools

*12th-grade Advanced Placement calculus and trigonometry
and 10th-grade Honors Algebra II teacher*

NATIONAL BOARD CERTIFIED TEACHER

"We are in the same boat, let's row together. We as teachers are entrusted with people's most precious possessions, their children. We must work together across grades and across disciplines to nurture them, encourage them, teach them, and set them in their individual paths to achieve their own personal greatness."

■ 2014 OKLAHOMA TEACHER OF THE YEAR FINALISTS

Therese D. Rawlinson

Jane Phillips Elementary School
Bartlesville Public Schools

5th-grade teacher

"Optimism works every time. It is the positive energy needed to build strong whole school and classroom communities. It is the passionate avocation of meaningful learning and mastery teaching. It is the positive thinking needed to make personal and professional goals, to overcome obstacles and hardships, to keep to the task, and to carry us victoriously to the finish line time and time again."

Jentri Guinn

Porter High School
Porter Consolidated Public Schools

10th-, 11th- and 12th-grade English teacher
NATIONAL BOARD CERTIFIED TEACHER

"The one and only thing that matters most is the students. Each and every student sitting in a desk across the state and nation deserves the highest quality education. Although it is easy to become consumed in so many other factors of teaching, every decision related to a student's education must be in his or her best interest."

Frank V. Cooper

Sand Springs Public Schools

10th-, 11th- and 12th-grade world history and comparative religions teacher

"I am unable to imagine a more fulfilling profession than teaching. Where else can you study the lessons of the past, behold the wonders of the present, and look directly into the promise of the future? Teaching allows all of this while also offering the opportunity to make a lasting contribution."

■ 2014 OKLAHOMA TEACHER OF THE YEAR FINALISTS

Tera Landrum

Oak Crest Elementary School
Broken Arrow Public Schools

5th-grade teacher

"First and foremost, I love and respect them (students); then I build a relationship with them; and finally, I teach them. If I teach them to have a good character, they will be influential and important. If I help them develop a strong work ethic, they will be successful in life. If I teach them to see the good in both people and in life, then they will sail through the storms that life will undoubtedly bring."

Mara Richards

Durant Middle School
Durant Public Schools

8th-grade science and pre-Advanced Placement physical science teacher

"As Teacher of the Year, I would like to communicate to my fellow educators and public that I have a commitment to improve education and strengthen the teaching profession. I want to encourage people to become educators and for good teachers to stay in the profession. As professionals we need access to a professional learning community that offers support, resources and opportunities for collaboration."

Susan Rindal

Vanoss Elementary School
Vanoss Public Schools

Pre-Kindergarten teacher

"Early intervention is a critical necessity that is intended for young children of pre-kindergarten age or younger, who show signs of a developmental or physical delay. During the early childhood years, the pathways of the brain are malleable and can be changed. To miss the opportunity to do this can sentence a child to lifelong problems in learning and behavior."
