Introduction

The Oklahoma Academic Standards for Social Studies is the result of the contributions of social studies educators, representatives of higher education, Tribal representatives, and community members. This document reflects a balanced synthesis of the work of all members of the Oklahoma Academic Standards for Social Studies Writing and Review Committees.

The standards specify what students should know and be able to do as learners of social studies at the end of each grade level or social studies course. The order of the standards at any grade level is not meant to imply a sequence of topics and should be considered flexible for the organization of any course.

Standards Overview

Having a literate citizenry rests on a commitment to and practice of democratic values and the practice of them. It requires the ability to use knowledge about one's community, nation, and world, apply critical thinking and reasoning practices, and employ skills of data analysis, collaboration, decision-making, and problem-solving. Young people who are knowledgeable, skillful, and committed to democracy are necessary to sustain the democratic way of life.

The Oklahoma Academic Social Studies Standards will provide students with a vigorous social studies education, encouraging and enabling each student to acquire a core of basic knowledge, an array of useful skills, and a way of thinking drawn from its related academic disciplines. Thus equipped, students are prepared to become informed and contributing citizens in this constitutional republic – the United States of America.

The standards are composed of two primary components: Content Standards and Social Studies Practices. The Content Standards designate specific learning targets at each grade level or course. These Content Standards are derived from the major disciplines of the social sciences: Civics, History, Geography, and Economics. The Social Studies Practices define basic skills and interdisciplinary tools to prepare students for college, career, and civic life. These Practices are meant to be integrated with the instruction of Content Standards at each grade level.

Social Studies Content Strands Overview

Social Studies is a systematic and coordinated discipline designed to promote civic competence by drawing upon four content strands: Civics, History, Geography, and Economics. These strands draw from all fields of study related to the social sciences to provide a framework used in the development of the content standards for social studies. They are to be addressed through an integrated program from grades Pre-K through 12, as appropriate at each level. While at some grades and for some courses, specific strands will be more dominant than others, all strands are represented and interrelated in the standards for each grade and course.

Strand 1: Civics

Civics is defined as the study of the rights, responsibilities, and duties of citizens, including an understanding of their role in American government. This strand helps students understand the essential principles and workings of their political system, as well as the relationship of American leadership and influence in world affairs. The goal of civics is to develop literate, informed, competent, and responsible citizens who are politically aware and committed to the fundamental values and principles of American constitutional democracy.

Strand 2: History

History focuses on the written record of human experience revealing how individuals and societies developed institutions, philosophies, and cultures, as well as how they resolved their problems. A balanced study of history helps students understand the how and why of the challenges and successes of past societies. By studying the choices and decisions of the past, students can confront today's problems with a deeper awareness of alternatives and likely consequences.

Strand 3: Geography

The study of Geography emphasizes the asking of geographic questions in order to understand the relationship of humans to their environment. Geography examines the study of the Earth's surface, the connections between people and places, and the ways people both adapt to and modify their environment. As a discipline, geography provides the necessary skills to help students answer questions about the influence of the environment on human development in the past, present, and future.

Strand 4: Economics

Economics provides students with an understanding of how individuals, communities, states, and nations allocate both scarce and abundant resources. A clear understanding of economics enables students to comprehend the various competing economic ideas and forces that affect them every day, measure the impact of each, and evaluate the consequences of personal decisions and public policies. As a discipline, economics provides an understanding of how a market economy effectively functions, while preparing them to be producers, consumers, and citizens.

Social Studies Practices Overview

The Social Studies Practices reflect the key skills and disciplinary tools to prepare students for college, career, and civic life. The practices are meant to be integrated with the instruction of content standards and are designed to support student mastery of the content through a progression of skills PK-12. These four practices are defined broadly below and further delineated in each grade level, as well as presented in a grade-band table (see Appendix).

-  Engage in Democratic Processes
Understanding the importance of critical questioning to solve real world problems.
Students will develop and respond to essential and supporting questions to frame independent investigations of the past and present.
Students will gain knowledge of the principles and foundations of American democracy to participate in civic processes.
-  Disciplinary-Based Practices to Acquire, Apply, and Evaluate Evidence
Understanding and using strategies to analyze evidence in the four disciplines (strands) of the social studies.
Students will evaluate civic, historical, geographic, and economic information related to major social studies topics.
Students will draw conclusions from factual information to formulate informed decisions, essential to participating as responsible citizens.
-  Read Critically and Interpret Information Sources
Understanding the purpose of engaging with text.
Students will evaluate written text, identifying purpose and point of view as presented in a variety of primary and secondary sources.
Students will read historical and contemporary texts to engage in collaborative discussion, while applying learned principles and ideas.
-  Engage in Evidence-Based Writing
Understanding the multiple purposes of the writing process.
Students will develop written products designed for a variety of social studies-related investigations.
Students will research and integrate evidence to demonstrate their understanding and support their opinion.

Pre-Kindergarten Social Studies

Pre-Kindergarten students are introduced to the four disciplines (“strands”) comprising the social sciences: Civics, History, Geography, and Economics. Through exploratory learning experiences, students will begin to grasp what it means to be a citizen and contributing member of American society.

Practice Standards: Grade Band PK-1

PK.1 The student will apply critical thinking skills to address authentic civic issues.	PK.1.1 Demonstrate an understanding of the virtue of civil discourse to analyze and address real-world problems. A. Describe how people can work together to make decisions in the classroom and school. B. Engage in democratic processes to address authentic, real-world problems in the classroom. C. Identify and discuss local problems and ways in which people are trying to address these problems.
	PK.1.2 Develop practices which demonstrate an understanding that social studies involves the evaluation of evidence. A. Collaboratively ask and respond to essential questions of common concerns to the student and community. B. Use supporting questions to help guide learning of specific social studies content. C. Practice critical thinking skills by responding to various levels of open-ended questions. D. With guidance, demonstrate understanding of social studies content through completion of authentic tasks.

With guidance and support, generate a list of topics of interest and questions about social studies. B. Organize information found during group research, using graphic organizers and other aids with guidance and support. C. With guidance and support, create a simple presentation to communicate ideas and thoughts.
Pre-Kindergarten Content Standards
PK.1 The student will understand and demonstrate traits of good citizenship.	PK.1.1 Describe the importance of rules and personal responsibilities, including working together while listening to others to make decisions as a member of a family and classroom community.
	PK.1.2 Explain the need to respect the equal dignity of individuals in their class and community.
	PK.1.3 Describe the concept of patriotism, citizenship and the traits of being a good citizen (e.g., respect for others' rights and property, obedience to rules).
	PK.1.4 Identify the United States and the Oklahoma flags as symbols of the nation and the state.
PK.2 The student will understand the importance of the study of history.	PK.2.1 Explain history as the events that happened to people of other times and places.
	PK.2.2 Describe how and why we honor people and events of the past (e.g., national holidays and naming of schools).
	PK.2.3 Use words and phrases (e.g., before and after) as they relate to chronology and time in order to explain how things change.
	PK.2.4 Explain that lessons can be learned from the past and from decisions that people have made in the past.

PK.3 The student will examine the basic concepts of physical and human geography.	PK.3.1 Explain that a map represents a drawing of a place.
	PK.3.2 Use basic directional terms in relation to the student's relative location (e.g., near, far, between, across).
	PK.3.3 Describe the classroom as both a geographic place and a community of people.
	PK.3.4 Identify family customs and traditions as basic elements of culture, using examples from the school and community.
PK.4 The student will identify basic economic concepts.	PK.4.1 Identify basic needs that all people share (e.g., clothing, shelter, food).
	PK.4.2 Explain how people's needs are met through work or trade.
	PK.4.3 Explain how resources are used by people to meet their needs.
	PK.4.4 Describe how the work of various school personnel provides needed services for students.
	PK.4.5 Identify the differences between buyers and sellers, using examples relevant to student experiences.

Kindergarten Social Studies

Kindergarten students continue their exploration of basic concepts as they relate to the four strands of social studies: Civics, History, Geography, and Economics by making simple connections to their own experiences in the classroom, school, and neighborhood.

Kindergarten Content Standards
K.1 The student will understand and demonstrate traits of good citizenship.	K.1.1 Describe the importance of being a member of a family, class, and school by explaining the purpose of rules and laws, how everyone is treated the same under the law, and why natural consequences are the result of one's choices.
	K.1.2 Describe authority figures in the school and community (e.g., principal, police officers) including why they are needed.
	K.1.3 Identify ways that individuals can be patriotic and contributory members of the community (e.g., participate in community service projects, show respect for authority, demonstrate fairness).
	K.1.4 Identify the importance of United States symbols, such as the Statue of Liberty, and how they are used to represent common ideals of Americans.
	K.1.5 Identify the purpose of the Pledge of Allegiance and exhibit appropriate flag etiquette.
K.2 The student will understand the impact of historical events and people.	K.2.1 Identify past events that have occurred in the community (e.g., celebrations or festivals, famous people, founding stories, significant events, leaders who made a difference).
	K.2.2 Identify how the United States flag is a symbol of our country and its people, explaining the symbolism of its stripes (representing the first colonies and states) and its stars (representing the current states).
	K.2.3 Explain that different types of sources can be used to learn about the past (e.g., photographs, maps, books, artifacts, songs, oral histories, and art).
	K.2.4 Use words and phrases related to the concept of chronology (e.g., before, after; yesterday, today, tomorrow) to explain the concept of change over time.
	K.2.5 Explain how people and the environment change over time (e.g., hunting and growing food, ways people made a living, construction of roads, homes, and modern buildings, the creation of manmade lakes).

K.3 The student will identify and examine the basic concepts of physical and human geography.	K.3.1 Ask geographic questions about where places are located and why they are located there.
	K.3.2 Explain that a map is a drawing of a place, as viewed from above.
	K.3.3 Construct basic maps of the classroom, school, and neighborhood.
	K.3.4 Identify basic cardinal directions and terms used to describe relative location.
	K.3.5 Distinguish between land and water on a map.
	K.3.6 Explain that the school is part of a larger community and describe the features of the neighborhood around the school.
	K.3.7 Explain that one's community is within the state of Oklahoma and identify the state of Oklahoma on a map of the United States.
	K.3.8 Describe what makes one's community alike or different from other communities by comparing family and community customs and traditions.
K.4 The student will identify basic economic concepts.	K.4.1 Differentiate between a need and a want by explaining that a need is necessary for survival while a want is something desired.
	K.4.2 Explain the difference between a good and a service, including how they are used to meet needs and wants.
	K.4.3 Identify examples of goods used by children, families and communities (e.g., food, toys, clothing), drawing conclusions about where they come from and how they connect us to other communities.
	K.4.4 Identify examples of services provided by community members (e.g., medical care, fire protection, law enforcement, military service, elected officials).
	K.4.5 Explain the relationship between work and earning money.

	K.4.6 Identify ways that people use their money, including spending on needs and wants, saving, and contributing to the community.

1.2 The student will examine how we learn from the important events and people of the past.	1.2.1 Describe and explain the meaning of important symbols of the United States (e.g., Bald Eagle, Liberty Bell) and examine how American symbols, holidays, and celebrations help to develop a shared sense of history and community.
	1.2.2 Explain why people may see historical events from different points of view.
	1.2.3 Identify primary sources (e.g., letters, photographs, diaries, newspapers, official papers) and explain how they help us learn about the past through firsthand accounts.
	1.2.4 Read and construct basic timelines of related events to demonstrate an understanding of the concept of chronology, as well as cause and effect relationships.
	1.2.5 Compare ways individuals and groups in the local community and region lived in the past with how they live today (e.g., housing, communication, transportation, occupations).
	1.2.6 Explain how American Indians played a role in their original homelands and thrive in Tribal communities today.
	1.2.7 Explain how Americans from different cultural backgrounds immigrated to the United States, comprising and contributing their traditions to our national heritage.

	1.2.8 Identify stories from ancient Israel that influenced the American colonists, the Founders, and American culture (e.g., Hebrew Creation account, Abraham and Isaac, Moses and the Ten Commandments).
	1.2.9 Identify stories about ancient Greece and Rome that informed the American colonists, the Founders, and American culture (e.g., democratic city-states, voting on public laws).
	1.2.10 Describe the contributions of people and groups commemorated on national holidays (e.g., Veterans' Day, Thanksgiving, Presidents' Day, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Day, Independence Day).
1.3 The student will demonstrate knowledge of basic geographic concepts.	1.3.1 Explain that a globe is a model of the Earth and that maps can be used to represent local places or specific regions of the state and nation.
	1.3.2 Describe the difference between physical and political maps and how each can be used to inform about the world.
	1.3.3 Construct maps of specific places, such as the community and state, and describe the relative location of physical and human features.
	1.3.4 Distinguish between landmasses and bodies of water on a map and globe, identifying the continent of North America and the countries and oceans bordering the United States.
	1.3.5 Identify cardinal directions and use them to identify specific locations on a map and globe, including the location of the national capital, Washington, D.C., and the Oklahoma state capital.
	1.3.6 Identify natural resources (e.g., water, soil, vegetation, minerals) and describe how people use natural resources to meet their needs and wants.
	1.3.7 Identify ways in which people adapt to the world around them (e.g., specific clothing for different climates, storm shelters).
	1.3.8 Identify how the physical environment of the community has been modified to meet specific needs (e.g., agricultural crops, forestry, dams).
	1.3.9 Describe how the physical environment affects occupational and recreational opportunities in the local community and region.

	1.3.10 Define culture and identify the elements of culture (e.g., language, customs, religion, food, clothing), using examples relevant to student experiences.
1.4 The student will describe the characteristics of free enterprise.	1.4.1 Explain how Americans are free to make choices about what to buy and that choices are necessary because they cannot have everything they want.
	1.4.2 Differentiate between natural resources and human-made products.
	1.4.3 Explain how goods are produced from natural resources using human labor, identifying examples of goods and services that people in the local community produce (e.g., agricultural products, oil and gas, aerospace industry).
	1.4.4 Describe ways people are paid for their labor and how some people own their own businesses to earn money.
	1.4.5 Compare the roles of consumers and producers in the American economy and explain how individuals are both producers and consumers.
	1.4.6 Explain the costs and benefits of spending and saving in order to meet one's needs and wants.
	1.4.7 Describe how setting goals and creating a budget helps people obtain their needs and wants.

Grade 6 Social Studies: The Western Hemisphere

The four strands of social studies: Civics, History, Geography, and Economics continue to guide student learning in sixth grade as they are applied to an in-depth investigation of the geographic environment and cultures of the Western Hemisphere. Students will analyze the location of natural resources, their use in human development, the commonalities and differences between cultural groups, and how principles of democracy compare to other forms of government.

Practice Standards: Grade Band 6-8

6.1 The student will apply critical thinking skills to address authentic civic issues.

6.1.1 Demonstrate an understanding of the virtue of civil discourse to analyze and address real-world problems.

- A. Analyze why the acknowledgement of different perspectives can contribute to civil discourse and solutions to civic issues.
- B. Apply a range of deliberative and democratic procedures to discuss, make decisions, and propose action about real-world problems in and out of school.
- C. Use information to analyze how a specific problem can manifest itself in regional and global issues, describing options for solutions.

6.1.2 Develop practices which demonstrate an understanding that social studies involves the evaluation of evidence.

- A. Investigate and propose answers to essential questions representing complex enduring issues across the social studies disciplines
- B. Answer supporting questions related to social studies content knowledge and make connections to different interpretations.
- C. Develop deeper critical thinking skills by questioning assumptions and identifying inconsistencies or errors in reasoning.
- D. Demonstrate understanding of social studies content through the development of self-driven inquiries and the completion of authentic tasks and assessments.

6.2 The student will use interdisciplinary tools to acquire, apply, and evaluate

6.2.1 Demonstrate an understanding of the principles of government, the benefits of democratic systems, and their responsibilities as citizens.

- A. Compare and analyze civic virtues and democratic principles in historic and global settings, explaining how they influence political institutions.

Compare the powers and responsibilities of the United States government to other forms of government, including the roles and rights of citizens. C. Examine the impact of constitutions, laws, treaties, and international agreements on the limits of government, including the concepts of sovereignty and the rule of law.
	6.2.2 Develop skills which demonstrate an understanding of historical events and the people who shaped our history. A. Gather and draw conclusions from sources of evidence, identifying plausible author, occasion, audience, purpose, and possible bias. B. Describe multiple factors and explain how they can influence the perspectives of individuals and groups on events from history and the modern era. C. Distinguish multiple causation, including immediate versus long-term cause-effect relationships; construct timelines of related events.
	6.2.3 Demonstrate a mastery of geographic concepts and the use of geographic tools to understand the impact of geography on the past and present. A. Answer geographic questions and conduct investigations by acquiring, organizing, and interpreting information about the modern world and historical events. B. Use multiple mapping techniques, data visuals, satellite images, and geographic technology to analyze spatial patterns of physical and human characteristics, making connections between regions. C. Explain how the environment affects cultural patterns and historical events, providing opportunities and challenges for human development.
	6.2.4 Identify the principles of economic systems and develop an understanding of the benefits of a market system in local, national, and global settings. A. Analyze, interpret, and compare economic data from multiple charts and graphs. B. Identify different types of economic systems, comparing advantages and disadvantages for citizens and the growth of a nation's economy. C. Explain how technology and trade impact standard of living and economic interdependence, using historical or contemporary examples.

sources related to social studies concepts.	B. Integrate the use of visual information (e.g., maps, charts, photographs, videos, political cartoons) with textual information from primary and secondary sources to draw conclusions.
	6.3.2 Students will apply critical reading and thinking skills to interpret, evaluate, and respond to a variety of complex texts and perspectives. A. Analyze works written on the same topic and compare methods the authors use to achieve similar or different purposes. B. Evaluate textual evidence to determine whether a claim is substantiated. C. Engage in collaborative discussions about information presented in social studies texts, expressing ideas clearly while building on the ideas of others
6.4 The student will develop a variety of evidence-based written products designed for multiple purposes.	6.4.1 Summarize and paraphrase, integrate evidence, and cite sources to create written products, research projects, and presentations for multiple purposes related to social studies content. A. Compose informative essays and other written products using and citing evidence (e.g. facts, examples, details) from multiple sources and maintaining an organized structure. B. Compose argumentative written products by introducing a claim, recognizing an opposing viewpoint, and organizing evidence and reasoning from credible sources.
	6.4.2 Engage in authentic research to acquire, refine, and share knowledge through written presentations and products. A. Refine and formulate viable research questions related to social studies investigations, using well-developed theses or claims. B. Quote, paraphrase, and summarize findings, avoiding plagiarism. C. Organize and create presentations or products using research from a variety of formats and encompassing different points of view.
Grade 6 Content Standards
6.1 The student will analyze data from a geographic	6.1.1 Explain geography as a field of inquiry which answers “the why of where” by examining both physical and human geography using spatial thinking skills.

perspective using the skills and tools of geography.	6.1.2 Integrate visual information to organize understandings about the people and environments of the Western Hemisphere. A. Apply the concepts of scale, distance, and direction to explain the relative location of physical and human places. B. Use the system of latitude and longitude to identify the absolute location of a place on maps and globes, explaining how various map projections distort the surface of the Earth. C. Use different types of maps, graphs, charts, and geographic tools, such as satellite imagery and Geographic Information System (GIS) technology, in order to draw conclusions and make predictions from geographic data.
	6.1.3 Compare characteristics of major regions of the Western Hemisphere through the regular use of strategies, such as the Five Themes of Geography (e.g., location, place, human-environment-interaction, movement, regions) which utilize critical thinking about geographic concepts.
	6.1.4 Describe and analyze the role of geographic factors on events which impact the people and places of the Western Hemisphere, using both primary and secondary sources.
6.2 The student will analyze the physical systems of the major regions of the Western Hemisphere.	6.2.1 Identify and describe on a physical map the major landforms and bodies of water important to each region of the Western Hemisphere.
	6.2.2. Use visual information to describe on a physical map the major climate and vegetation zones, drawing conclusions about their impact on human development.
	6.2.3 Explain how the factors of latitude, elevation, and proximity to bodies of water influence climate and human activities.
	6.2.4 Describe the distribution of natural resources found in each region, delineating between renewable and nonrenewable resources, and explaining how the relative location to such resources can influence the economic development of a region.
6.3 The student will identify the characteristics, distribution, and demographic patterns of human populations and	6.3.1 Identify on a political map the major countries and population centers of each region, describing urban, rural, suburban, and metropolitan settlement patterns.
	6.3.2 Analyze how the characteristics of culture impact people and places.

systems of the Western Hemisphere.	A. Identify and describe cultural traits (e.g., language, religion, traditions, the arts) which are unique to a people and region. B. Explain how culture provides individuals with a sense of identity and how it is transferred from one generation to the next. C. Compare major cultural groups of the Western Hemisphere (e.g., American Indian, Indigenous peoples of Canada and Amazonia, French-speaking Canadians, Hispanic Latin America, Caribbean citizens of African descent).
	6.3.3 Define cultural diffusion and describe how cultural characteristics spread and impact contemporary regions (e.g., American entertainment, fast foods, social media’s rapid spread of ideas, wide use of the smartphone).
	6.3.4 Analyze the impact of geography on migration and population distribution. A. Define push factors of migration (e.g., instability, conflict, natural disasters) using historic or contemporary examples (e.g., European colonization, asylum seekers from political unrest or religious persecution, and examples from different waves of migration in American history). B. Identify and provide examples of pull factors of migration (e.g., economic opportunity, religious freedom, family ties, education).
	6.3.5 Describe the ethnic heritage of Indigenous cultures of the Western Hemisphere. A. Explain that various complex societies, economic, and political systems developed on the North and South American continents, each known for unique achievements and contributions prior to the arrival of Europeans. B. Compare the cultures of Native peoples of the United States and Canada (e.g., Ancestral Puebloan, Mississippian, First Nations, Inuit, Metis.) C. Explain how the Olmec and Maya adapted to and modified their environment to develop advanced civilizations in Mesoamerica, featuring advancements in science, architecture, the development of a writing system, and regional trade. D. Describe how the Aztec conquest of other Indigenous peoples created extensive trade networks and wealth. E. Explain how the Inca were able to control an expansive empire in the Andes, developing a strong central government and innovations in agriculture.

	6.3.6 Describe the cultural interactions between Indigenous cultures and European settlers which impacted the heritage and history of major regions of the Western Hemisphere. <ul style="list-style-type: none">A. Identify examples of cultural diffusion (e.g., Columbian Exchange: availability of new commodities and technology; assimilation of Indigenous peoples into colonial societies).B. Describe the impact of English and French settlement of North America on cultural characteristics such as language, customs, and principles of self-government.C. Examine Spanish colonialism of Latin America and its influence on language, religion, and customs, including the practices of privateering and mercantilism.D. Identify the distribution of enslaved persons between different areas of the Western Hemisphere and explain how overseas expansion and commerce led to the development of the trans-Atlantic slave trade.E. Explain the effects of plantation agriculture and the importation of enslaved labor on the economic development and cultural heritage of regions (e.g., Brazil and the Caribbean).
6.4 The student will analyze the interactions of humans and their environment in the Western Hemisphere.	6.4.1 Explain how humans adapt to the environment (e.g., types and location of housing, clothing and food choices, methods of transportation, and options for economic activities) using historic or contemporary examples.
	6.4.2 Analyze the impact of natural disasters on human populations, including displacement, scarcity of consumer goods, economic activities, and loss of life.
	6.4.3 Describe how humans modify the natural environment to support human development, such as subsistence and commercial agriculture, extraction of fossil fuels and minerals, development of industry, and urbanization.
	6.4.4 Identify environmental challenges (e.g., air pollution, acid rain, deforestation) and explain how they can impact a region (e.g., oil spills in the Gulf of Mexico, ranching and logging operations in Amazonia, urban sprawl of Mexico City).
	6.4.5 Evaluate the need to preserve resources, climate, and wildlife by creating public awareness, including the efforts of eco-tourism.
	6.4.6 Describe the role of citizens as responsible stewards of natural resources and the environment (e.g., recycling campaigns, water conservation, national parks, protection of wildlife preserves).

6.5 Analyze why and how humans develop rules, laws, and governments, including the role of citizens in government.	6.5.1 Compare systems of world governments. <ul style="list-style-type: none">A. Define and describe the characteristics of limited governments (democracy, republic, constitutional monarchy) and authoritarian systems (dictatorship, oligarchy, absolute monarchy).B. Differentiate between a representative democracy and a constitutional monarchy/parliamentary democracy by comparing the governments of the United States and Canada.C. Explain the concept of sovereignty with regards to American Indian Tribal governments and examine issues related to rights of self-determination over lands and resources.D. Analyze the concept of sovereignty as it relates to the self-determination of Indigenous people of the Western Hemisphere.E. Describe how historic struggles for independence in Latin America and the Caribbean were influenced by the American revolution and Constitution, leading to the creation of modern republics.F. Describe challenges for several Latin American governments and economies, due to a history of political and economic instability.
	6.5.2 Compare common features of the Constitution of the United States to other representative governments of the Western Hemisphere, focusing on the principles of limited government, individual rights and liberties, and the role of the citizen in the selection of government officials.
6.6 Analyze economic systems of the world and how they impact the development of a nation and region.	6.6.1 Explain how people organize economic systems to address basic economic questions regarding which goods and services will be produced, how they will be distributed, and who will consume them.
	6.6.2 Analyze the benefits and limitations of various economic systems. <ul style="list-style-type: none">A. Define the characteristics of traditional, market, and command economic systems.B. Describe how government policies affect economic activities within a nation, as well as determine trade relationships.C. Compare the outcomes of different economic systems for human prosperity, equality, and freedom.
	6.6.3 Explain how different sectors of a nation's economy contribute to the development of a nation. <ul style="list-style-type: none">A. Primary Sector: Extraction and harvesting of natural products (e.g., Venezuela's Orinoco Belt, Chile's artisanal fishing, logging of Canada's boreal forests)B. Secondary Sector: Production of goods through manufacturing and construction (e.g., United States steel industry, Argentina's meat-processing, Mexico's automotive exports)C. Tertiary Sector: Businesses that provide services to consumers (e.g., ecotourism of Costa Rica, New York Stock Exchange, Houston's MD Anderson Cancer Center)

	D. Quaternary Sector: Research and intellectual services such as technological advancement and innovation (e.g., Silicon Valley and Sao Paulo’s technology centers, Massachusetts Institute of Technology).
	6.6.4 Identify and compare the characteristics of developed and developing countries by analyzing data (e.g., literacy rate, life expectancy, per capita income, and infant mortality) used by geographers to measure development.
6.7 The student will analyze the common characteristics of regions which create a sense of identity and unity, influencing the interactions among people and nations of the Western Hemisphere.	6.7.1 Define the concept of region as an area sharing common characteristics and explain how regions can be categorized in many ways, such as political, physical, cultural, and economic.
	6.7.2 Identify examples of physical (natural) regions sharing common features of landforms, climate, vegetation, and natural resources (e.g., Great Plains, New England, Amazonia, Canadian Shield, Altiplano, sun belt, tornado alley).
	6.7.3 Identify examples of man-made regions sharing common characteristics related to culture, human settlement, history, economic activities, and governments (e.g., Latin America, corn belt, Northeast megalopolis, Silicon Valley, British Commonwealth, barrio, suburb).
	6.7.4 Describe patterns of economic interdependence and trade linking regions of the Western Hemisphere. A. Define basic concepts related to trade, including exports and imports, tariffs, free trade, and balance of trade. B. Explain economic interdependence as it relates to the outsourcing of jobs to developing regions.
	6.7.5 Explain reasons for cooperation among nations of the Western Hemisphere. A. Describe how the people of different regions cooperate to address common concerns and how such cooperation impacts global interdependence (e.g., the United States-Mexico-Canada Agreement, Mercosur). B. Examine how supranational organizations (e.g., Organization of American States, Arctic Council) create cooperative political, economic, defense, and cultural regions.
	6.7.6 Explain reasons for conflict between regions of the Western Hemisphere, such as territorial disputes, access to natural resources, and ethnic differences (e.g., boundary and mineral claims of the Arctic, Indigenous sovereignty over oil and gas reserves in Bolivia, immigration across the United States-Mexico border).

Grade 7 Social Studies: The Eastern Hemisphere

Students in seventh grade deepen their understanding of the four disciplines of social studies: Civics, History, Geography, and Economics as they relate to the environments and people of the Eastern Hemisphere. More sophisticated application of geographic concepts and principles are center focus for grade seven, in addition to analysis of more complex issues facing contemporary world governments and systems.

Grade 7 Content Standards
7.1 The student will analyze data from a geographic perspective using the skills and tools of geography.	7.1.1 Describe the role of geographic factors on events, explaining the importance of spatial perspective and integrating specific geographic information to support analysis from primary and secondary sources.
	7.1.2 Reinforce geographic skills through the routine practice and use of geographic tools (e.g., thematic maps, graphs, charts, satellite imagery, GIS technologies) in order to draw conclusions and make predictions from geographic data.

7.2 The student will analyze the physical systems of the major regions of the Eastern Hemisphere.	7.2.1 Identify on a physical map the major landforms and bodies of water of each region and compare climatic conditions, vegetation, and biomes using thematic maps and other geographic tools.
	7.2.2 Describe how the physical environment can influence human population distribution, population growth, settlement patterns, land use, and economic activities.
	7.2.3 Compare the characteristics and distribution of major renewable and nonrenewable resources of each region, identifying major nations in which natural resources (e.g., fossil fuels, minerals, agricultural crops) are the primary source of economic activities.
	7.2.4 Identify examples of scarcity and how the availability of natural resources impacts regional economies, which can contribute to conflict and cooperation.
7.3 The student will analyze the interactions of humans and their environment.	7.3.1 Analyze how humans adapt to their environment, including the impact of weather patterns and natural disasters on human populations, resulting in displacement, scarcity of consumer goods, and loss of life.
	7.3.2 Describe how humans adapt to and modify their environment for the purpose of food production. A. Describe the differences among subsistence, cash crop, and commercial agriculture, including their impact on the economic development of a region B. Explain how agricultural innovations, such as the Green Revolution and modern irrigation systems, increase food production in developing countries. C. Examine how agricultural practices in a region imprint the physical environment (e.g., desertification of the Aral Sea, terraced construction for rice farming, modern irrigation methods utilized in the Arabian Peninsula).
	7.3.3 Evaluate the effects of human modification of the natural environment through processes related to industrialization. A. Explain why places become major hubs of industrial activity by analyzing the relationship between the location of natural resources to various manufacturing industries. B. Describe the importance of transportation infrastructure and its direct impact on people's access to resources and consumer goods. C. Examine how the development of technology meets energy demands, as well as modifies the environment (e.g., extraction of raw materials, offshore drilling, nuclear power plants, water diversion, hydroelectric power plants).

	7.3.4 Describe the role of citizens as responsible stewards of natural resources and the environment, through sound resource use and conservation.
7.4 The student will identify the distribution and demographic patterns of human populations of the Eastern Hemisphere.	7.4.1 Identify on a political map the major countries and population centers of each region, describing urban, rural, suburban, and metropolitan settlement patterns.
	7.4.2 Explain the impact of geography on population distribution, density, growth, change, settlement patterns, the availability of resources, and migration.
	7.4.3 Describe the challenges of urbanization and urban sprawl (e.g., access to public services, affordability of housing, gentrification, pollution, transportation).
	7.4.4 Examine how nations address population changes through government policies (e.g., education, health care, immigration).
	7.4.5 Describe the reasons for emigration and immigration. <ul style="list-style-type: none">A. Examine the role of pull factors (e.g., economic opportunity, education, family) and the role of push factors (e.g., political unrest, religious persecution, war, famine, natural disasters) which motivate both emigration and immigration, differentiating between involuntary and voluntary migration.B. Describe contemporary reasons and examples of migration (e.g., drought in agricultural eastern Africa resulting in urbanization, overpopulation of India's cities due to employment options in high-tech industries).
7.5 The student will evaluate the development and impact of culture on the major regions and peoples of the Eastern Hemisphere.	7.5.1 Compare cultural traits, including language, social systems, religious beliefs and practices of major regions and explain how culture can change over time in response to the physical environment, contact with other cultures, technology, and innovation.
	7.5.2 Define and describe the legacy of the world's major cultural hearths on a region's ethnic heritage and history. <ul style="list-style-type: none">A. Examine how and why major cultural hearths developed along major river valleys and crossroads of trade (e.g., Mesopotamia's Fertile Crescent; the Nile, Indus, Huang he and Yangtze river valleys; the kingdoms of Ghana, Mali, and Songhai).B. Explain that complex societies and civilizations in different regions share common characteristics (e.g., agricultural innovations, written language, and early systems of law and government).

	7.5.3 Examine major religions of the world, including their belief systems and influence on contemporary societies. <ul style="list-style-type: none">A. Examine the roots of Western Civilization in ancient Israel by describing the origins and central features of Judaism, identifying its sacred texts (e.g., the Torah, Ten Commandments) and explaining its basic beliefs (e.g., monotheism, emphasis on individual worth, personal responsibility, and adherence to moral obligations, whether ruler or ruled).B. Explain the origins and central features of Christianity, by identifying its sacred texts and teachings, explaining its basic beliefs (e.g., monotheism, eternal life, Jesus of Nazareth as the Messiah), its relationship to Judaism, and its impact on modern societies and contemporary culture.C. Describe the origins and central features of Hinduism, including its basic beliefs (e.g., karma, reincarnation) and its influence on society of the Indian subcontinent.D. Describe the origins and central features of Buddhism, including its basic beliefs (e.g., Four Noble Truths, Nirvana) and how its philosophy influenced other regions.E. Explain the origins and features of Islam, including its sacred text, basic beliefs (e.g., monotheism, Five Pillars) and describe its expansion and influence into Europe and North Africa.
7.6 Analyze systems of government by examining their source of authority, principles, structures, and processes.	7.6.1 Compare the source of authority and power of representative governments (republic, Constitutional monarchy) versus authoritarian systems (dictatorship, monarchy, totalitarian regime, oligarchy, theocracy) using contemporary or historical examples (e.g., the symbolic role of the British crown versus the authority of Saudi Arabia’s monarchy, the republics of western Europe to the Chinese Communist system). 7.6.2 Trace the historic roots of representative democracy. <ul style="list-style-type: none">A. Explain why the government of ancient Athens is considered the beginning of democratic government and examine Greek political concepts, including the “polis” or city-state, rule of law, liberty, civic participation and voting rights, legislative bodies, and written Constitutions.B. Describe the government of the Roman Republic and its contribution to the development of representative self-government, including separation of powers, liberty, the rule of law, and the concept of civic duty.C. Describe influences of early English tradition related to the principles of limited government and individual rights, such as found in the Magna Carta and established by the English Bill of Rights. 7.6.3 Compare the role of the citizen in modern representative governments to authoritarian systems (e.g., United Kingdom to Russia; India to Saudi Arabia; South Africa to China; United States to Iran). <ul style="list-style-type: none">A. Describe the involvement of citizens in the selection of government officials and the lawmaking process in different systems of government.

	B. Compare civil liberties in representative to authoritarian systems of government, referencing the United States Bill of Rights. C. Describe how contemporary authoritarian governments maintain power over citizens (e.g., denial of natural and civil rights, illegitimate elections, restrictions on free speech and the free exercise of religion, refusal of due process protections, corruption among government officials, unequal application of the law, and use of mob intimidation).
	7.6.4 Analyze issues related to Indigenous sovereignty, including the management of natural resources and the preservation of Indigenous cultures (e.g., Scandinavia’s Saami, the Rohingya people of Myanmar, the Uyghur ethnic group of China, New Zealand’s Māori).
7.7 The student will examine and compare economic systems as means by which governments organize and distribute available resources, services, and goods.	7.7.1 Explain how people organize economic systems to address basic economic questions regarding which goods and services will be produced, how they will be distributed, and who will consume them.
	7.7.2 Compare the advantages and disadvantages of the traditional, market, and command economic systems, including how government policies affect economic activities and trade relationships among nations.
	7.7.3 Evaluate how the major sectors of economic activities contribute to the development of a country or region: <ul style="list-style-type: none">A. Extraction and harvesting of natural products (Primary Sector)B. Production of goods through manufacturing and construction (Secondary Sector)C. Businesses that provide services to consumers (Tertiary Sector)D. Research and intellectual services such as technological advancement and innovation (Quaternary Sector).
	7.7.4 Compare the economic measurements of productivity which inform nations of their economic health and growth (e.g., Gross Domestic Product and Gross National Product).
	7.7.5 Distinguish between developed and developing regions by analyzing data used by geographers (e.g., the Human Development Index data, literacy rate, life expectancy, infant mortality, per capita income) and analyze the role of government to finance a nation’s development (e.g., infrastructure, enforcement of contracts, law and safety, social programs, and education).

7.8 The student will analyze the physical and human characteristics of regions which create uniqueness and influence people’s perceptions of the Eastern Hemisphere.	7.8.1 Define the concept of region and explain how regions change over time through physical and human processes, such as land use, urban growth, population, natural disasters, and trade.
	7.8.2 Explain and summarize how common physical or human characteristics can link as well as divide regions (e.g., manmade canals linking European trading centers, the Sahara Desert as both a physical and cultural division of the African continent, religious and political differences leading to armed conflict in Southwest Asia).
	7.8.3 Explain patterns of global interdependence, including the impact of changing technology on trade routes, dependence on resources, use of low-cost labor, and the outsourcing of technological and manufacturing jobs to developing regions.
	7.8.4 Examine indicators of economic interdependence and world trade, including why nations are concerned with the balance of trade, and explain major trade patterns among regions of the Eastern Hemisphere.
	7.8.5 Explain why countries enter into global trade agreements, using examples such as the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC), the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) and the African Continental Free Trade Area (AfCFTA).
	7.8.6 Describe how political, economic, and cultural forces (e.g., civil wars, terrorism, genocide, ethnic separatism) have challenged political arrangements (e.g., political status of Taiwan to China, the Shoah [Jewish Holocaust], the division of Sudan and South Sudan).
	7.8.7 Analyze reasons for conflict and cooperation among regions, evaluating the advantages and disadvantages of international organizations and alliances (e.g., European Union, North Atlantic Treaty Organization, International Red Cross) as they relate to mutual defense, the resolution of disputes, and the response to humanitarian needs.

Grade 8 Social Studies: United States History and Civics

Grade 8 learning sustains the analysis of Civics, History, Geography, and Economics as they each play a significant role in the development of the American republic from the pre-revolutionary era, independence, industrial growth, westward expansion, civil war, and reconstruction. Students trace the founding of the republic, analyze the democratic principles upon which it was built, and analyze the structure of American government, with specific focus on how the Constitution provides for and protects individual liberties.

Practice Standards: Grade Band 6-8

8.1 The student will apply critical thinking skills to address authentic civic issues.

8.1.1 Demonstrate an understanding of the virtue of civil discourse to analyze and address real-world problems.

- A. Analyze why the acknowledgement of different perspectives can contribute to civil discourse and solutions to civic issues.
- B. Apply a range of deliberative and democratic procedures to discuss, make decisions, and propose action about real-world problems in and out of school.
- C. Use information to analyze how a specific problem can manifest itself in regional and global issues, describing options for solutions.

8.1.2 Develop practices which demonstrate an understanding that social studies involves the evaluation of evidence.

- A. Investigate and propose answers to essential questions representing complex enduring issues across the social studies disciplines.
- B. Answer supporting questions related to social studies content knowledge and make connections to different interpretations.
- C. Develop deeper critical thinking skills by questioning assumptions and identifying inconsistencies or errors in reasoning.
- D. Demonstrate understanding of social studies content through the development of self-driven inquiries and the completion of authentic tasks and assessments.

Oklahoma History and Government

Oklahoma History and Government highlights state history and politics; however, all four strands of social studies: Civics, History, Geography, and Economics are evident and continue to be essential components of student learning. The course highlights the history of the state, from pre-contact cultures and the presence of extensive Tribal societies, through the migration of many different peoples, and the development of the state’s economic sectors. Equally important is the analysis of local, state, national, and Tribal governments, as well as the constitutional principles and civic responsibilities of state citizens.

Practice Standards: Grade Band 9-12

Modern World History

Students utilize the settings of the world’s regions and major historic eras to sharpen their grasp of the four strands of social studies: Civics, History, Geography, and Economics. The Modern World History standards span from the Renaissance to the growth of modern nations, to twentieth century world events. Analyzing the place and influence of the American republic throughout modern eras will help students better understand their role as citizens.

Practice Standards: Grade Band 9-12

MWH.1 The student will apply critical thinking skills to address authentic civic issues.

MWH.1.1 Demonstrate an understanding of the virtue of civil discourse to analyze and address real-world problems.

- A. Evaluate the impact of perspectives, civil discourse, and democratic principles on addressing civic issues.
- B. Engage in a range of deliberative and democratic processes to develop strategies to address authentic, real-world problems in community and out-of-school contexts.
- C. Gather and evaluate information regarding complex problems, assessing individual and collective actions taken to address them.

MWH.1.2 Develop practices which demonstrate an understanding that social studies involves the evaluation of evidence.

- A. Develop, investigate, and evaluate plausible answers to essential questions that reflect enduring understandings across time, real world circumstances, and social studies disciplines.
- B. Evaluate points of agreement and disagreement from reliable information and expert interpretations used to answer supporting questions related to content knowledge.
- C. Reinforce critical thinking by evaluating and challenging ideas and assumptions, analyzing and explaining inconsistencies in reasoning.

Explain why states have written constitutions and explain the relationship of state constitutions to the national constitution, including the guarantee “to every State in the Union a Republican form of Government” (Article IV, Section 4).

USG.3.2 Examine how the Constitution may be considered a “living document” due to its clearly defined and intentionally rigorous amendment process, which requires super-majorities at both state and federal participation.

USG.3.3 Analyze how the Framers designed a system of separated powers to prevent the concentration and potential abuse of power.

- A. Describe the concept of separation of powers by explaining how the national government is divided into branches according to three basic functions: legislative, executive, and judicial.
- B. Compare the scope of the powers vested to the Executive Branch (Article I) and Legislative Branch (Article II).
- C. Examine the necessity to “counteract ambition with ambition” through a system of checks on government authority as explained by Madison in Federalist Paper No.51.
- D. Explain how the checks and balances system provides each branch of government with individual powers to affect other branches, preventing any one branch from becoming too powerful.
- E. Examine historic and contemporary examples of the system of checks and balances to illustrate the intent of the Framers and evaluate the effectiveness of the system.

USG.3.4 Analyze the American system of federalism as established by the Constitution.

- A. Define and identify the enumerated (expressed) powers found in Article I.
- B. Describe how the “general welfare” clause and “necessary and proper” clause have empowered Congress with implied powers.
- C. Identify powers denied to the national government versus those reserved to the states.
- D. Describe the reasons why the Framers established concurrent powers, comparing examples exercised by both the national and state governments.
- E. Explain how the Supremacy Clause (Article VI, Clause 2) establishes the Constitution and federal laws or treaties as the “Supreme Law of the Land.”
- F. Evaluate changes that have occurred in the relationship between the states and the national government over time (e.g., “cooperative federalism” versus “new federalism”).

USG.3.5 Summarize and explain the relationships and responsibilities among the levels of governments.

- A. Explain how local, state, and national governments are involved in cooperatively shaping public policy and responding to public policy issues.
- B. Compare specific functions, organizations, and purposes of local and state governments, such as ensuring personal security and health regulations.

	C. Explain the differences among the types of local governments in Oklahoma (e.g., county, city) as well as their operational relationship with the state government. D. Describe how some state constitutions, such as Oklahoma’s, provide for more direct public involvement in the legislative process through such provisions as the initiative and referendum.
	USG.3.6 Analyze Tribal sovereignty, defined as a Tribal Nation’s inherent power to self-govern. A. Examine how the Commerce Clause established the initial nation-to-nation relationship between American Indian Tribes and the United States government, explaining how American Indian sovereignty predates the sovereignty of the United States. B. Describe American Indian Tribes as self-governing entities engaged in a trust relationship which establishes a legally enforceable fiduciary obligation on the part of the United States to protect Tribal treaty rights, lands, assets, and resources. C. Describe the evolution of Tribal jurisdiction over time, as a result of legislation (e.g., the Indian Reorganization Act, Major Crimes Act, Indian Child Welfare Act, American Indian Religious Freedom Act, Indian Gaming Regulatory Act) and Supreme Court decisions (e.g., McGirt v. Oklahoma, Haaland vs. Brackeen).
USG.4 The student will compare the legislative, executive, and judicial branches of the American government as they address the needs of the public.	USG.4.1 Describe the scope and powers of the legislative branch of the federal government as delineated in Article I of the Constitution. A. Compare the composition of the United States House of Representatives to the United States Senate. B. Identify the constitutional qualifications and terms of office for members of the United States Congress, including changes created by passage of the 17th and 27th Amendments, as well as reasons which prompted such changes. C. Explain why the Framers established a bicameral legislative body and how the House of Representatives functions differently from the Senate. D. Identify the leadership roles of the Speaker of the House, the Senate President Pro Tempore, and majority and minority leaders, including the responsibilities of major congressional committees. USG.4.2 Describe the scope and powers of the executive branch as delineated in Article II of the Constitution. A. Identify the constitutional qualifications, term of office, and impeachment process for the President of the United States, including the impact of the 12th, 20th, 22nd, and 25th Amendments. B. Compare the original intent of the Chief Executive’s roles as described by Hamilton in Federalist Paper No.69 to the modern presidency.

	C. Describe the function of executive departments and the federal bureaucracy, including the role of the President’s Cabinet. D. Examine the purpose of independent regulatory agencies (e.g., Federal Reserve, Security and Exchange Commission). E. Describe the growth of federal agencies during the 20th century, analyzing the constitutional and statutory bases for the delegation of powers to departments or agencies of the executive branch.
	USG.4.3 Explain the steps of the legislative process, including the role of Congress, the President, and special interests, using examples from contemporary policy making and evaluating how the process reflects democratic principles of American constitutional government.
	USG.4.4 Describe the scope and powers of the federal judiciary as delineated in Article III of the Constitution. A. Explain the length of terms, selection and confirmation process, jurisdiction, and process for the removal of Supreme Court justices. B. Examine the Framers’ intent regarding the judiciary’s authority, including the principle of judicial review, as described by Hamilton in Federalist Paper No.78 and established in Marbury v. Madison. C. Examine the role of district courts, the courts of appeals, and the Supreme Court in the judicial review process. D. Explain the importance of an independent judicial system as integral to the interpretation and defense of citizens’ rights and liberties.
USG.5 The student will analyze factors affecting the political process at the local, state, and national levels of government, including the participation of the citizen.	USG.5.1 Analyze how citizens participate in American self-government by voting in public elections and describe factors that affect voter turnout, trends in voter turnout, and attempts to increase voter participation. USG.5.2 Identify the functions of political parties in elections and government at the national and state levels, by comparing political platforms of major contemporary political parties and describing how political parties influence both policymaking and the election of like-minded candidates to public office. USG.5.3 Trace the steps of the electoral process, including the roles of state caucuses and primaries, national conventions, and campaigns. USG.5.4 Describe the function and impact of political action committees on state and national elections, analyzing issues and decisions of significant court cases, including Buckley v. Valeo and Citizens United v. Federal Election Commission.

	USG.5.5 Explain the function of the Electoral College, identifying different methods in which presidential electors are determined (e.g., proportional versus winner-take-all).
	USG.5.6 Examine ongoing challenges to the election process, including redistricting and the practice of gerrymandering.
	USG.5.7 Describe the impact of the mass media on the political process, including the effects of media bias and issues related to public opinion polls.
USG.6 The student will explain how the Constitution of the United States preserves the equal protection of rights and liberties.	USG.6.1 Evaluate the importance of the rule of law as the principle that all citizens and institutions are to be accountable to the same laws and consequences.
	USG.6.2 Explain how the Constitution of the United States provides majority rule with equal protection for the rights of individuals, including those of the minority.
	USG.6.3 Examine the historic traditions and documents which have contributed to the American concepts of rights, liberties (e.g., English Bill of Rights, Virginia Declaration of Rights, Virginia Statute for Religious Freedom).
	USG.6.4 Analyze the civil rights and civil liberties affirmed and guaranteed by the Bill of Rights. <ul style="list-style-type: none">A. Explain how individual liberties are essential to the functioning of the American democratic society.B. Examine how liberty and private property generate broad-based opportunity and prosperity in the United States.C. Identify basic rights, liberties, and protections of due process protected by the Bill of Rights and subsequent constitutional amendments.D. Explain how the Bill of Rights protects individuals from abuse by the national government and has been applied to the states through the “doctrine of selective incorporation” established by the 14th Amendment.
	USG.6.5 Analyze the concept of American exceptionalism as being the "exception to the rule" as observers. such as Alexis de Tocqueville claimed and identify ways in which America has been an exception to the rule (e.g., stability, realizations of liberty and civil equality, prosperity, innovation).
	USG.6.6 Explain how freedom of expression and thought is an essential element of democracy by examining historic landmark Supreme Court decisions which have addressed and clarified individual rights under the

	First Amendment (e.g., Gitlow v. New York, Brandenburg v. Ohio, New York Times v. United States, and Texas v. Johnson). USG.6.7 Analyze how the First Amendment has been used to protect religious freedom, as well the Judeo-Christian tradition, through Supreme Court decisions (e.g., West Virginia v. Barnette, Engel v. Vitale, Minersville School District v. Gobitis, and Kennedy v. Bremerton School District). USG.6.8 Explain why due process rights are essential for the protection of individual rights and the maintenance of limited government by examining landmark Supreme Court cases which have specified due process rights over time (e.g., Mapp v. Ohio, Gideon v. Wainwright, Miranda v. Arizona, and Furman v. Georgia). USG.6.9 Describe how significant issues in American society have been addressed by examining landmark decisions (e.g., Regents of the University of California v. Bakke, McDonald v. City of Chicago, and Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health).
USG.7 The student will analyze the processes and implementation of public policy in the United States.	USG.7.1 Explain how domestic policy is developed and implemented. <ul style="list-style-type: none">A. Identify and explain powers that the United States Constitution grants to the President and Congress to develop and carry out domestic policy.B. Trace the budget process, including the impact of government shutdowns and risks from the national debt, explaining how economic trade-offs occur when addressing competing public needs.C. Identify the types and purposes of taxation that are used by local, state, and federal governments to fund public services.D. Examine theories related to the government's influence on the stability and growth of the economy, such as fiscal and monetary policy. USG.7.2 Evaluate the role of the national government in formulating and carrying out foreign policy. <ul style="list-style-type: none">A. Explain different ways nations pursue their self-interests abroad, such as philosophies of isolationism versus internationalism.B. Explain why and how the United States pursues its national interest and to what extent the pursuit of national interest harmonizes with the pursuit of American ideals.C. Identify and explain powers that the Constitution gives to the President and Congress to conduct foreign affairs.D. Describe the tools used to carry out United States foreign policy, including diplomacy, economic aid, military aid, humanitarian aid, treaties, sanctions, and military intervention.

	E. Explain the government’s role regarding national defense, trade, and humanitarian efforts by examining contemporary commitments to international organizations and alliances.
USG.8 The student will be able to evaluate the significance of civic participation in order to ensure the preservation of constitutional government.	USG.8.1 Explain the constitutional and legal provisions that establish and affect citizenship, including provisions of the 14th Amendment, the naturalization process, and the concept of dual citizenship as it applies to Tribal citizens.
	USG.8.2 Define civic virtue and explain the individual’s duty and responsibility to participate in civic life. <ul style="list-style-type: none">A. Distinguish among the civic life (public affairs), political life (the means of influencing government), and private life of citizens.B. Examine how components of civil society (e.g., active communities, individual self-reliance, ethics, religion) contribute to the maintenance of limited government in a representative and democratic republic.C. Explain how civic virtue and a shared American civic identity are achieved through the deliberation about the meaning and application of our Founding documents.D. Describe the right to vote as a cornerstone of a representative democracy and the most direct way for citizens to participate in the government.E. Examine other political rights and responsibilities of citizens, including registering to vote, running for office, serving on juries, and participating in political campaigns.F. Identify responsibilities of both citizens and residents of the United States, including obedience of the law, registering for the selective service, and paying state and federal taxes prior to the annual deadline.
	USG.8.3 Analyze how our system of government provides citizens opportunities to monitor and influence government and hold elected officials accountable. <ul style="list-style-type: none">A. Explain how the Constitution protects citizens' ability to engage in informed public discourse as a means to monitor government officials and institutions.B. Identify legal methods to advocate and influence policy (e.g., voting, peaceful protests, petitioning, contacting government officials).

Economics Content Standards

This course focuses on fundamental economic ideas and concepts in a manner that presents complex systems with manageable and attainable learning objectives in order to achieve a general understanding of how our American market system operates. Such knowledge assists students with the challenges of financial decisions they will confront during their lifetime.

Practice Standards: Grades 9-12

E.1 The student will apply critical thinking skills to address authentic civic issues.	E.1.1 Demonstrate an understanding of the virtue of civil discourse to analyze and address real-world problems. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> A. sources related to social studies concepts.	B. Analyze information from visual, oral, digital, and interactive texts (e.g., maps, charts, images, political cartoons, videos) in order to draw conclusions and defend arguments.
	E.3.2 Students will apply critical reading and thinking skills to interpret, evaluate, and respond to a variety of complex texts and perspectives. A. Evaluate the extent to which historical or cultural perspectives affect an author’s stated or implied purpose. B. Evaluate the author’s point of view, potential bias, and how authors can reach different conclusions regarding the same issue. C. Actively listen, evaluate, and analyze a speaker’s message, asking questions while engaged in collaborative discussions about social studies topics and texts.
E.4 The student will develop a variety of evidence-based written products designed for multiple purposes.	E.4.1 Summarize and paraphrase, integrate evidence, and cite sources to create written products, research projects, and presentations for multiple purposes related to social studies content. A. Compose informative essays and written products, developing a thesis, citing and incorporating evidence from multiple sources and maintaining an organized, formal structure. B. Compose argumentative written products, including a precise claim as distinguished from opposing claims, organizing logical reasoning, and providing credible evidence to develop an argument.
	E.4.2 Engage in authentic research to acquire, refine, and share knowledge through written presentations and products. A. Develop self-generated theses or claims related to independent research and investigations using credible and relevant sources. B. Integrate quotes and summaries of research findings into written products while avoiding plagiarism. C. Construct presentations or products for a designated audience, using research and reasoning to enhance understanding of a topic or issue.
Economics Content Standards
E.1 The student will develop and apply economic reasoning and decision-making skills.	E.1.1 Define and explain basic economic concepts (e.g., scarcity, surplus, opportunity cost, cost/benefit analysis, risk/reward relationship, incentive, and trade-off) applying them to a variety of economic situations.
	E.1.2 Determine appropriate courses of economic actions using a variety of economic reasoning and decision-making models.

	E.1.3 Explain how productive resources (natural, human, capital) are necessary for the production of goods and services.
	E.1.4 Examine how producers and consumers confront the condition of scarcity by making choices that involve opportunity costs and tradeoffs.
	E.1.5 Describe how people respond predictably to positive and negative incentives and how individual choices based on personal subjective preferences cannot be predicted.
	E.1.6 Explain how voluntary exchange occurs only when all participating parties expect to benefit with each transaction contributing to overall societal well-being.
E.2 The student will evaluate how societies answer basic economic questions.	E.2.1 Compare the world’s basic economic systems of traditional, market (free enterprise), command, and mixed market economies; identify how these systems attempt to meet the needs of their societies.
	E.2.2 Describe the impact of comparative and absolute advantage upon the three basic economic questions: What goods and services to produce? How to produce them? For whom are they produced?
	E.2.3 Describe how clearly defined and enforced property rights are essential to a market economy.
E.3 The student will explain how prices are set in a market economy and will determine how price provides incentives to buyers and sellers.	E.3.1 Analyze how price and non-price factors affect the demand and supply of goods and services available in the marketplace.
	E.3.2 Explain what causes shortages and surpluses (e.g., government-imposed price floors, price ceilings, and other government regulations) and describe their impact on prices and people’s decisions to buy or sell.
	E. 3.3 Explain ways that firms engage in competition and examine the role of firms in setting prices in a market economy, including administered price theory and the impact of marketing.
	E.3.4 Compare the basic characteristics of monopoly, oligopoly, pure competition, and market process.
	E.3.5 Evaluate the role of the government within the economy as it relates to defining, establishing, and enforcing property rights.

	E.3.6 Explain how competition among many sellers lowers costs and prices and encourages producers to produce more.
	E.3.7 Explain how people's own self-interest, incentives, and disincentives influence market decisions.
E.4 The student will describe the role of economic institutions and government in a market economy.	E.4.1 Evaluate the impact of the government's protection of private property rights and enforcement of the rule of law in a market economy.
	E.4.2 Describe the purpose, costs, and benefits of government funded services.
	E.4.3 Describe how financial institutions, such as banks and credit unions, allow people to pool their incomes and provide future income through investment in stocks.
E.5 The student will examine the function and uses of money within the modern economy, including trading, borrowing, and investing.	E.5.1 Explain the emergence and the basic functions of money (e.g., medium of exchange, store of value, unit of account) and the key attributes of money (e.g., durable, portable, divisible, fungible, scarce, and widely accepted).
	E.5.2 Explain how individuals, businesses, and the overall economy benefits from the various uses of money (e.g., trading, borrowing, investing, and diversifying) versus saving money.
	E.5.3 Identify the characteristics (e.g., divisibility, durability, acceptability, scarcity, portability) and functions (e.g., store of value, unit of account, and medium of exchange) of money.
	E.5.4 Define inflation and determine how it is measured, including the impact inflation has on different sectors of the United States economy.
E.6 The student will evaluate how interest rates impact decisions in the market economy.	E.6.1 Analyze the relationship between interest rates and inflation rates to both the borrower and the lender.
	E.6.2 Determine how changes in real interest rates impact people's decisions to borrow money and purchase goods in a market economy.

E.7 The student will analyze the role of entrepreneurs and laborers within a market economy.	E.7.1 Evaluate the role of labor and explain the importance of workers to production, including their relationship to entrepreneurs by describing how the earnings of workers are determined by the value of the product/service produced and the workers' productivity.
	E.7.2 Describe how decisions made by an entrepreneur and a laborer affect job opportunities for others (e.g., profit-maximizing level of output, hiring the optimal number of workers, comparing marginal costs and benefits of producing more or less of a resource).
	E.7.3 Explain the function of profit in a market economy as an incentive/reward for entrepreneurs' acceptance of risk.
	E.7.4 Analyze the potential risks and gains to entrepreneurs establishing new businesses or inventing a new product.
	E.7.5 Evaluate the costs and benefits of incorporation including the expansion of resources and reduction of risks.
E.8 The student will examine the impact of the global economy on domestic conditions within the United States economy.	E.8.1 Describe how current economic conditions can be affected by many factors (e.g., unemployment, Consumer Price Index (CPI), individual savings and debt, government debt, government-enforced price ceilings, labor supply, and inflation).
	E.8.2 Explain how economic conditions, including supply and demand, have an impact on consumers, producers, and government policymakers.
	E.8.3 Explain that prices are signals of relative scarcity and that attempts to control prices may lead to subsequent distortions in supply and demand.
	E.8.4 Describe the causes and different types of unemployment, how unemployment is measured, and the impact of unemployment on different sectors of the United States economy.
E.9 The student will identify the basic measures of a nation's economic output and income.	E.9.1 Examine the differences between the nominal and the real GDP (Gross Domestic Product) and explain how GDP and GNP (Gross National Product) are used to describe economic output over time by comparing the GDP of various nations representative of market, command, and mixed economic systems.
	E.9.2 Describe the impact on the economy when GDP and GNP are growing versus declining.

	E.9.3 Evaluate the impact of self-interest, competition, collusion, technological advancement, standard of living, the business cycle and fluctuation on the GDP.
E.10 The student will identify the potential economic impact of government policy.	E.10.1 Define progressive, proportional, and regressive taxation and explain the effects of each on earners.
	E.10.2 Analyze the costs and benefits of government policies on economic growth and prosperity, including how political and social goals are sometimes pursued through economic decisions.
	E.10.3 Compare fiscal and monetary policy and evaluate the impact each has on the economy.
	E.10.4 Explain how changes in federal spending and taxation can affect budget deficits, surpluses, and the national debt.
	E.10.5 Describe the organization and functions of the Federal Reserve System, including its congressional mandates (i.e., maximize employment and control inflation) and its expansion to provide financial stability.
	E.10.6 Analyze how the Federal Reserve attempts to effectuate price stability, full employment, and economic growth via monetary tools (e.g., changes in the discount rate, reserve requirements, and the money supply).
E.11 The student will analyze how trade affects the economies of the world.	E.11.1 Explain the consequences of trade among individuals, regions, and countries by describing that all forms of trade can ultimately be explained as voluntary exchange between individuals.
	E.11.2 Define and distinguish between absolute and comparative advantage and explain how most trade occurs because of a comparative advantage in the production of a particular good or service.
	E.11.3 Define trade barriers (e.g., tariff, quota) including the difference between balance of trade and balance of payments, explaining why countries sometimes erect barriers to trade, how such barriers affect a country's economic growth, and assessing arguments for and against free trade.
	E.11.4 Explain how exchange rates affect the purchasing power of consumers.

World Geography

This elective course seeks to develop geographically informed young adults through a better understanding of the Earth’s physical and human systems, including a focus on the interdependency of living things and the environment. This knowledge, in turn, provides a basis for future citizens to make wise decisions regarding the best interests of their communities and their planet.

Practice Standards: Grades 9-12

WG.1 The student will apply critical thinking skills to address authentic civic issues.

WG.1.1 Demonstrate an understanding of the virtue of civil discourse to analyze and address real-world problems.

- A. Evaluate the impact of perspectives, civil discourse, and democratic principles on addressing civic issues.
- B. Engage in a range of deliberative and democratic processes to develop strategies to address authentic, real-world problems in community and out-of-school contexts.
- C. Gather and evaluate information regarding complex problems, assessing individual and collective actions taken to address them.

WG.1.2 Develop practices which demonstrate an understanding that social studies involves the evaluation of evidence.

- A. Develop, investigate, and evaluate plausible answers to essential questions that reflect enduring understandings across time, real world circumstances, and social studies disciplines.
- B. Evaluate points of agreement and disagreement from reliable information and expert interpretations used to answer supporting questions related to content knowledge.
- C. Reinforce critical thinking by evaluating and challenging ideas and assumptions, analyzing and explaining inconsistencies in reasoning.
- D. Demonstrate understanding of content through the development of self-driven inquiries and the completion of multi-staged, authentic tasks and assessments. .

WG.2 The student will use interdisciplinary tools to acquire, apply, and evaluate WG.2.1 Demonstrate an understanding of the principles of government, the benefits of democratic systems, and their responsibilities as citizens.

- A. Evaluate various significant documents from the United States and other nations to compare civic virtues and principles of political systems.

Psychology Content Standards: Elective Coursework

This elective course introduces students to the field of psychology, providing an opportunity to study the nature of psychological science. Learning targets align to general themes that show how psychological knowledge is interconnected and dependent on empirical data.

PS.1 The student will examine the foundations of psychology and its origins as an empirical science.	PS.1.1 Analyze the context and origins of psychology including the major approaches to psychology (e.g., cognitive-behavioral, psychoanalytic, cognitive) including major historical figures.
	PS.1.2 Describe the classifications and various subfields in psychology, including vocational applications such as counseling, industrial, clinical, experimental, and educational psychology.
	PS.1.3 Compare the appropriate application of experimental and non-experimental research methodologies (e.g., case study, correlation, meta-analysis, and naturalistic observation).
	PS.1.4 Identify and evaluate psychological concepts in representations of data, including tables, graphs, charts, figures, and diagrams.
	PS.1.5 Compare quantitative and qualitative research strategies including experiments, surveys, focus groups, and narratives as the foundation of research in psychology.
PS.2 The student will investigate the structure, biochemistry and circuitry of the brain and the nervous system to understand their roles in affecting behavior.	PS.2.1 Identify and describe the structure and function of major brain systems, including the major parts of the brainstem, limbic system and cerebral cortex.
	PS.2.2 Identify the parts of a neuron and explain how the process of neural transmission affects behavior and mental processes.
	PS.2.3 Explain the processes of sensation, including the structures and functions of visual, auditory, kinesthetic/vestibular, and chemical sensory systems.
PS.3 The student will describe physical, cognitive, social-emotional, and language development from conception	PS.3.1 Explain the interaction of environmental and biological factors in human development including the role of the brain in all aspects of development.
	PS.3.2 Describe the theories of Jean Piaget, Lawrence Kohlberg, and Erik Erikson regarding human development.

through the latter stages of adulthood.	PS.3.3 Explain the social, cognitive and neurological factors in learning.
	PS.3.4 Identify and explain the major theories of learning including classical conditioning, operant conditioning, social learning theory, and insight learning.
	PS.3.5 Describe the process, organization, and factors that influence encoding, storing, retrieving and forgetting memories.
PS.4 The student will understand the principles of motivation and emotion.	PS.4.1 Explain how theories of motivation and emotion apply to behavior and mental processes.
	PS.4.2 Compare the predominant theories of motivation including drive-reduction, self-determination, instinct, conflicts, and sensation-seeking.
PS.5 The student will examine how psychological disorders are diagnosed, classified, and treated.	PS. 5.1 Examine how psychologists use integrated approaches and evidence-based practices to understand and treat psychological disorders.
	PS.5.2 Describe the symptoms and possible causes of categories of mental disorders, including neurodevelopmental, schizophrenic spectrum, depressive, bipolar, anxiety, obsessive-compulsive, dissociative, trauma/stressor-related, eating, and personality disorders.
	PS.5.3 Describe the research and trends in the treatment of psychological disorders.
PS.6 The student will evaluate the many factors that promote mental health.	PS.6.1 Identify and explain potential sources of stress, effects of stress, and various coping strategies for dealing with stress.
	PS.6.2 Explain how physical, psychological, and social factors combine to promote overall health and well-being.
	PS.6.3 Examine the influence of the social situation on individual behavior and mental processes, including persuasion, conformity and obedience.

	PS.6.4 Explain how biological, cognitive, environmental, and social factors can produce or influence emotional states, and how positive or negative emotions can affect thinking and action.
	PS.6.5 Explain how positive psychology approaches mental health, identifying factors that lead to well-being, including resilience, positive emotions and expressing gratitude.

DRAFT

Sociology Content Standards: Elective Coursework

Sociology is the study of social life, social change, and the social causes and consequences of human behavior. This elective course investigates the structure of groups, organizations, and societies and analyzes how people interact within these contexts.

S.1 The student will explain the sociological perspective and identify sociology as a scientific field of inquiry.

S.1.1 Describe the development of the field of sociology as a social science, including the contributions of leading theorists within sociology.

S.1.2 Identify, differentiate among, and apply the major sociological theories (e.g., functionalist perspective, conflict theory, symbolic interactionism).

S.1.3 Evaluate the strengths and weaknesses of the major methods of sociological research, including surveys and interviews, experiments, observations, content analysis, and research ethics.

S.1.4 Apply the scientific method of inquiry on the study of society, including developing a hypothesis, and identifying independent and dependent variables.

S.2 The student will examine the influence of culture and the way cultural transmission is accomplished.

S.2.1 Describe culture and the components of culture, including norms and values, material and non-material culture, and explain the ways culture influences individuals.

S.2.2 Explain the process of the social construction of the self and analyze how culture influences individuals, groups, and subcultures.

S.3 Students will examine the social construction of groups and their impact on individuals.

S.3.1 Describe the process of socialization, examining how social groups are composed and why individuals become members of or associate with different social groups.

S.3.2 Describe various subcultures and countercultures and explain their influence according to sociological perspectives.

S.3.3 Analyze how culture influences individuals, including the mechanisms of ethnocentrism, cultural relativity, and culture shock.

S.3.4 Identify aspects of social structure, including social class, social status and roles, as well as their influences on individuals and groups.

	S.3.5 Describe status as a component of social structure, including status sets, ascribed and achieved statuses, status symbols and master status.
S.4 The student will examine the social construction of groups and their impact on the life course of individuals.	S.4.1 Evaluate the characteristics of primary and secondary groups, including their influence over the behavior, attitudes, and values of their members.
	S.4.2 Identify various reference groups and explain how they are used by individuals to evaluate themselves.
	S.4.3 Identify major social institutions, including family, education, religion, economy, media, and government.
	S.4.4 Examine the benefits of belonging to social groups, as well as the power of social groups over behavior and attitudes.
	S.4.5 Explain how and why social institutions and cultures change over time.
S.5 The student will analyze social problems that affect large numbers of people within a social system.	S.5.1 Analyze patterns of social stratification and their effects on individuals and groups.
	S.5.2 Describe social problems and distinguish between characteristics of a social problem versus an individual problem.
	S.5.3 Analyze patterns of behavior found within social problems and their implications for society (e.g., juvenile crime, long-term unemployment).
	S.5.4 Examine the extent to which individual and group responses influence potential resolutions to social problems.

Appendix: Social Studies Practices

I. Democratic Processes: The student will apply critical thinking skills to address authentic civic issues.
PreK-Grade 1	Grades 2-3	Grades 4-5	Grades 6-8	Grades 9-12
A. Students will demonstrate an understanding of the virtue of civil discourse to analyze and address real-world problems.
I.A.1. (PK-1.2) Describe how people can work together to make decisions in the classroom and school.	I.A.1. (2-3) Explain how people make decisions in a democracy, using examples from their community and state.	I.A.1. (4-5) Explain how human experiences can shape a person’s point of view about civic issues.	I.A.1 (6-8) Analyze why the acknowledgement of different perspectives can contribute to civil discourse and solutions to civic issues.	I.A.1. (9-12) Evaluate the impact of perspectives, civil discourse, and democratic principles on addressing civic issues.
I.A.2. (PK-1) Engage in democratic processes to address authentic, real-world problems in the classroom or school.	I.A.2. (2-3) Use democratic processes to consider and propose actions to address authentic, real-world problems in the community and state.	I.A.2. (4-5) Use a range of democratic procedures to discuss and make decisions about real-world problems in the community, region, and nation.	I.A.2. (6-8) Apply a range of deliberative and democratic procedures to discuss, make decisions, and propose action about real-world problems in and out of school.	I.A.2. (9-12) Engage in a range of deliberative and democratic processes to develop strategies to address authentic, real-world problems in community and out-of-school contexts.
I.A.3. (PK-1) Identify and discuss local problems and ways in which people are trying to address these problems.	I.A.3. (2-3) Describe a range of local and state problems and how communities and local governments are trying to address them.	I.A.3. (4-5) Explain challenges of the past and present and describe strategies used to address local, regional, or national problems.	I.A.3. (6-8) Use information to analyze how a specific problem can manifest itself in regional and global issues, describing options for solutions.	I.A.3. (9-12) Gather and evaluate information regarding complex problems, assessing individual and collective actions taken to address them.

B. Students will develop practices which demonstrate an understanding that social studies involves the evaluation of evidence.
I.B.1. (PK-1) Collaboratively ask and respond to essential questions of common concerns to the student and community.	I.B.1. (2-3) Ask and respond to enduring essential questions of common concerns to the community and state.	I.B.1. (4-5) Ask and examine essential questions that are important to others, as well as enduring across social studies topics.	I.B.1. (6-8) Investigate and propose answers to essential questions representing complex enduring issues across the social studies disciplines.	I.B.1. (9-12) Develop, investigate, and evaluate plausible answers to essential questions that reflect enduring understandings across time, real world circumstances, and social studies disciplines.
I.B.2. (PK-1) Use supporting questions to help guide learning of specific social studies content.	I.B.2. (2-3) Develop responses to supporting questions relevant to specific social studies content knowledge.	I.B.2. (4-5) Compare points of agreement from reliable information used to answer supporting questions related to social studies content.	I.B.2. (6-8) Answer supporting questions related to social studies content knowledge and make connections to different interpretations.	I.B.2. (9-12) Evaluate points of agreement and disagreement from reliable information and expert interpretations used to answer supporting questions related to content knowledge.
I.B.3. (PK-1) Practice critical thinking skills by responding to various levels of open-ended questions.	I.B.3. (2-3) Reinforce critical thinking skills by regularly asking and responding to levels of open-ended questions.	I.B.3. (4-5) Demonstrate critical thinking skills by frequently developing and answering various depth of knowledge questions.	I.B.3. (6-8) Develop deeper critical thinking skills by questioning assumptions and identifying inconsistencies or errors in reasoning.	I.B.3. (9-12) Reinforce critical thinking by evaluating and challenging ideas and assumptions; analyzing and explaining inconsistencies in reasoning.
I.B.4. (PK-1) With guidance, demonstrate understanding of social studies content through completion of authentic tasks.	I.B.4. (2-3) Demonstrate understanding of social studies content through completion of authentic tasks and assessments.	I.B.4. (4-5) Reinforce understanding of social studies content through collaborative inquiries and the completion of authentic tasks and assessments.	I.B.4. (6-8) Demonstrate understanding of social studies content through the development of self-driven inquiries and the completion of authentic tasks and assessments.	I.B.4. (9-12) Demonstrate understanding of content through the development of self-driven inquiries and the completion of multi-staged, authentic tasks and assessments.

II. Social Studies Disciplinary-Based Practices:

The student will use interdisciplinary tools to acquire, apply, and evaluate content understanding of the four strands of social studies disciplines.

PreK-Grade 1	Grades 2-3	Grades 4-5	Grades 6-8	Grades 9-12
A. Students will understand the principles of government, the benefits of democratic systems, and their responsibilities as citizens.
II.A.1. (PK-1) Identify democratic principles such as equality, fairness, and respect for legitimate authority.	II.A.1. (2-3) Describe civic virtues and democratic principles such as equality, fairness, and respect for legitimate authority.	II.A.1. (4-5) Explain democratic principles in historic documents by identifying examples of civic virtues and principles at work in state and national settings.	II.A.1. (6-8) Compare and analyze civic virtues and democratic principles in historic and global settings, explaining how they influence political institutions.	II.A.1. (9-12) Evaluate various significant documents from the United States and other nations to compare civic virtues and principles of political systems.
II.A.2. (PK-1) Identify responsibilities of people in authority in school and community settings.	II.A.2. (2-3) Describe the basic structure of government at the local, state, and Tribal levels, including the importance of citizen participation.	II.A.2. (4-5) Explain the structure, responsibilities, and powers exercised by officials of the national government and describe ways informed citizens can and should participate.	II.A.2. (6-8) Compare the powers and responsibilities of the United States government to other forms of government, including the roles and rights of citizens.	II.A.2. (9-12) Evaluate the impact of the structure and powers exercised by governmental systems on public policy, using historical and contemporary examples.
II.A.3. (PK-1) Describe the purposes of rules in various settings (e.g., family, classroom, school), how rules are made, and consequences for violating rules.	II.A.3. (2-3) Explain the purposes of laws and government in the community and state, examining the role of elected officials in making laws.	II.A.3. (4-5) Examine the principles of the Constitution of the United States, including how laws are made in a democratic society and are used to protect individual rights.	II.A.3. (6-8) Examine the impact of constitutions, laws, treaties, and international agreements on the limits of government, including the concepts of sovereignty and the rule of law.	II.A.3. (9-12) Analyze the impact of constitutions, laws, treaties, and international agreements, by comparing how various governmental powers and responsibilities have changed over time.

B. Students will develop skills which demonstrate an understanding of historical events and the people who shaped our history.
II.B.1. (PK-1) Identify a primary source of information and with support, gather basic information (i.e., author, date, facts).	II.B.1. (2-3) Explain the difference between a primary and secondary source of information; gather basic information (i.e., author, date, facts).	II.B.1. (4-5) Compare and analyze primary and secondary sources from the past and present, including the intended audience and author’s purpose.	II.B.1. (6-8) Gather and draw conclusions from sources of evidence, identifying plausible author, occasion, audience, purpose, and possible bias.	II.B.1. (9-12) Gather and evaluate the usefulness of various formats of evidence for specific inquiry, analyzing the broader historical context, and assessing potential bias and credibility of sources.
II.B.2. (PK-1) Identify point of view and examples relevant to the student’s experiences.	II.B.2. (2-3) Define point of view and give examples relevant to the student’s experiences.	II.B.2. (4-5) Compare perspectives of individuals and groups from different regions and experiences, including the past and present.	II.B.2. (6-8) Describe multiple factors and explain how they can influence the perspectives of individuals and groups on events from history and the modern era.	II.B.2. (9-12) Analyze complex and interacting factors that influence multiple perspectives during different historical eras and contemporary events.
II.B.3. (PK-1) Discuss possible reasons for an event and make simple timelines which reflect cause-effect relationships, with guidance and support.	II.B.3. (2-3) Generate possible reasons for an event and draw conclusions from simple timelines by identifying immediate cause and effect relationships.	II.B.3. (4-5) Explain multiple causes and effects of events and developments of the past or present; create timelines to identify multiple causes and effects from given information.	II.B.3. (6-8) Distinguish multiple causation, including immediate versus long-term cause-effect relationships; construct timelines of related events.	II.B.3. (9-12) Evaluate how multiple, complex events are shaped by unique circumstances of time and place; construct and interpret parallel timelines.
C. Students will demonstrate a mastery of geographic concepts and the use of geographic tools to understand the impact of geography on the past and present.

III. Critical Reading and Interpretation of Informational Sources:
 The student will engage in critical, active reading of primary and secondary sources related to social studies concepts.

PreK-Grade 1	Grades 2-3	Grades 4-5	Grades 6-8	Grades 9-12
A. Students will comprehend, evaluate, and synthesize textual sources to acquire and refine knowledge in the social studies.
III.A.1. (PK-1) Locate the topic or main idea and supporting details of a text.	III.A.1. (2-3) Summarize and the main idea and locate supporting details of a text (e.g., primary and secondary sources).	III.A.1. (3-4) Use information accurately from a text when explaining the text explicitly and when drawing inferences from the text.	III.A.1. (6-8) Paraphrase the main idea and cite evidence from primary and secondary sources; provide an accurate summary of a source distinct from prior knowledge or opinion.	III.A.1. (9-12) Cite specific textual evidence to support analysis of primary and secondary sources, evaluating features such as author, date, and origin of information.

(9-12) Analyze information from visual, oral, digital, and interactive texts (e.g., maps, charts, images, political cartoons, videos) in order to draw conclusions and defend arguments.

B. Students will apply critical reading and thinking skills to interpret, evaluate, and respond to a variety of complex texts and perspectives.
III.B.1. (PK-1) Identify the author's purpose, with guidance and support.	III.B.1. (2-3) Determine the author's purpose, including what the author wants to answer, explain, or describe in informational texts.	III.B.1. (4-5) Determine an author's purpose and draw conclusions to evaluate how well the author's purpose was achieved.	III.B.1. (6-8) Analyze works written on the same topic and compare methods the authors use to achieve similar or different purposes.	III.B.1. (9-12) Evaluate the extent to which historical or cultural perspectives affect an author's stated or implied purpose.
III.B.2. (PK-1) Locate facts that are clearly stated in a text (e.g., who, what, where, when, why, how).	III.B.2. (2-3) Locate facts (e.g., who, what, where, when, why, how) to demonstrate an understanding of key details in a text.	III.B.2. (4-5) Distinguish fact from opinion in nonfiction text and investigate facts for accuracy.	III.B.2. (6-8) Evaluate textual evidence to determine whether a claim is substantiated.	III.B.2. (9-12) Evaluate author's point of view, potential bias, and how authors can reach different conclusions regarding the same issue.
III.B.3. (PK-1) Ask and answer basic questions and engage in collaborative discussions about appropriate topics in a text.	III.B.3. (2-3) Ask and answer questions to clarify information and engage in collaborative discussions about appropriate topics in social studies.	III.B.3. (4-5) Engage in collaborative discussions about appropriate topics and texts, expressing ideas clearly to others in group and whole class settings.	III.B.3. (6-8) Engage in collaborative discussions about information presented in social studies texts, expressing ideas clearly while building on the ideas of others.	III.B.3. (9-12) Actively listen, evaluate, and analyze a speaker's message, asking questions while engaged in collaborative discussions about social studies topics and texts.

IV. Evidence-Based Writing:
The student will develop a variety of evidence-based written products designed for multiple purposes.

PreK-Grade 1	Grades 2-3	Grades 4-5	Grades 6-8	Grades 9-12
A. Students will summarize and paraphrase, integrate evidence, and cite sources to create written products, research projects, and presentations for multiple purposes related to social studies content.

IV.A.1. (PK-1) Draw, label, dictate, and write an informative product with guidance and support.	IV.A.1. (2-3) Compose informative written products, focusing on the facts about a topic, including a main idea with supporting details.	IV.A.1. (4-5) Compose informative written products by introducing and developing a topic, supported by evidence (e.g. facts, examples, details) and maintaining an organized structure.	IV.A.1. (6-8) Compose informative essays and other written products using and citing evidence (e.g. facts, examples, details) from multiple sources and maintaining an organized structure.	IV.A.1. (9-12) Compose informative essays and written products, developing a thesis, citing and incorporating evidence from multiple sources and maintaining an organized, formal structure.
IV.A.2. (PK-1) With guidance and support, draw, label, dictate, and write to express an opinion, providing reasons as support.	IV.A.2. (2-3.3) Express an opinion about a topic by composing a written product and providing logical reasons as support.	IV.A.2. (4-5) Clearly state an opinion through written products, supported by examples, details, and reasoning.	IV.A.2. (6-8) Compose argumentative written products by introducing a claim, recognizing an opposing viewpoint, and organizing evidence and reasoning from credible sources.	IV.A.2. (9-12) Compose argumentative written products, including a precise claim as distinguished from opposing claims, organizing logical reasoning, and providing credible evidence to develop an argument.
B. Students will engage in authentic research to acquire, refine, and share knowledge through written presentations and products.
IV.B.1. (PK-1) With guidance and support, generate a list of topics of interest and questions about social studies.	IV.B.1. (2-3) Generate a list of topics of interest and individual questions about a specific topic in social studies.	IV.B.1. (4-5) Formulate a viable research question related to expanding knowledge of social studies concepts.	IV.B.1. (6-8) Refine and formulate viable research questions related to social studies investigations, using well-developed theses or claims.	IV.B.1. (9-12) Develop self-generated theses or claims related to independent research and investigations using credible and relevant sources.
IV.B.2. (PK-1) Organize information found during group research, using graphic organizers and other aids with guidance and support.	IV.B.2. (2-3) Organize information found during group or individual research, using graphic organizers or other aids.	IV.B.2. (4-5) Organize information from research, quoting accurately from the source and avoiding plagiarism.	IV.B.2. (6-8) Quote, paraphrase, and summarize findings, avoiding plagiarism.	IV.B.2. (9-12) Integrate quotes and summaries of research findings into written products while avoiding plagiarism.

IV.B.3. (PK-1) With guidance and support, create a simple presentation to communicate ideas and thoughts.	IV.B.3. (2-3) Create a simple presentation to communicate ideas and thoughts gathered from research.	IV.B.3. (4-5) Create presentations or products which summarize research findings from two or more sources.	IV.B.3. (6-8) Organize and create presentations or products using research from a variety of formats and encompassing different points of view.	IV.B.3. (9-12) Construct presentations or products for a designated audience, using research and reasoning to enhance understanding of a topic or issue.
