TO: The Honorable Members of the State Board of Education
FROM: Janet Barresi
DATE: August 23, 2012
SUBJECT: Adoption of the Definitions of High-Performing Reward, High-Progress Reward, Focus, Targeted Intervention, and Priority Schools

On February 9, 2012, the US Department of Education (USDE) granted Oklahoma a number of waivers from specific requirements of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA), also known as the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 (NCLB; Public Law 107-110). These waivers allowed for changes to the definitions of school designations. In place of schools identified for School Improvement, Corrective Action, or Restructuring under the provisions of NCLB, Oklahoma may now identify schools in the categories of Priority, Targeted Intervention, and Focus. In place of schools identified for Academic Achievement Awards under the provisions of NCLB, Oklahoma may now identify high-performing and high-progress schools in the category of Reward Schools.

On August 16, 2012, Oklahoma received notification that USDE has approved an amendment to Oklahoma’s ESEA Flexibility Request, which modifies the definitions of certain designations to align with Oklahoma’s recently adopted A-F School Report Card System in response to feedback from Oklahoma public school administrators and other members of the public.

State Board of Education approval is requested of the definition of High-Performing Reward, High-Progress Reward, Focus, Targeted Intervention, and Priority Schools.

Oklahoma Statutes (O.S.) and Oklahoma Administrative Code (OAC) reference many terms and phrases such as “Low-Performing School,” “High Challenge School,” “School on the School Improvement List,” “School Identified for School Improvement,” “School In Need of Improvement,” and “Low-Achieving School.” The definitions of Priority, Targeted Intervention, and Focus Schools adopted by the State Board of Education will apply to each of these references in statute and rule. These definitions will not necessarily apply to references of “Persistently Lowest Achieving School,” which has a specific definition for the purpose of Race to the Top and School Improvement Grant Competitions.
The definitions of Priority, Targeted Intervention, and Focus Schools adopted by the State Board of Education will apply to the following statutes:
